Gerry Zagorski	njfishing@aol.com	According to your data, the Black Seabass stocks have been over the SSB for a number of recent years now and you can hardly drop down a hook without catching one. Yes we likely caught more in 2021 because the stocks have been rebuilt, but as a result, we're looking at a 28% reduction?? This makes no sense to me. As a recreational fishermen, I support Recreation Harvest Reform and would like the MAFMC to take the same actions of the ASMFC to reduce the proposed 28% Black Seabass reduction. I also support the ongoing efforts of Recreational Reform to better take into account Stock Status. Respectfully Gerry Zagorski	02/01/2022 6:05pm

I fish for black sea bass recreationally out of Manasquan Inlet, during December primarily, 2-4 times per year (most trips are weathered out). From what I've witnessed over the past several years, the sea bass stock has been exploding. I see absolutely no reason for a reduction in bag limit, timeframe	02/02/202 2 9:54am

Raphael Burke	rayburke51@icloud.com	I support the recreational harvest reform. I have been a fishing boat captain for well over 50 years. I have never seen as many sea bass as I have in the past 5 years. Fish iof all sizes from 3 inches long to 20 inches long. Current limits on the boat are very easily obtained because there is a huge biomass, which tends to be getting stronger. Your own statistics show that this particular fishery is more than 100% repaired. Making sharp cuts in allocation by administrative measures without paying any attention to an exploding biomass is both unfair and dangerous to the livelihood of many people. Sensible management is extremely important in this matter and the	02/02/202 2 8:09pm
